INTERNSHIPS & CAREER SERVICES

A full-time staff in the Office of Internships and Career Services assists students as they make the most of the proven educational approach (classroom instruction, campus media opportunities and career preparation) emphasized in the College of Communications.

Internships help students to sharpen their professional skills under the critical eye of practitioners, to relate their education to the communications professions and to explore their career interests.

Nittany Lion Careers, a University-wide resource, provides access to career counseling, information sessions and professional development — making more than 30,000 employers available to students no matter their campus or major.

Students have access to a database of more than 4,000 internship opportunities

Nearly 550 students complete for-credit internships annually

400 recruiters at communications-specific job fairs in 2019

Our Career Advisor listserv provides students with daily internship and career leads with emails sent directly to their inbox.
